The custom of closing for part of the summer appears to be on the increase—to such an extent that in some lines of work it becomes nearly impossible to reach anyone or get anything done.

We might move time and effort if we surrendered to this trend, declared a summer featival and shut down the offices and factories for a month, and awarded a holiday to everyonethe people who work for stores, hotels, gas stations and transportation companies.

The Fire Hazard

CLOSURE of the Island's forests, in line with simifor magnires allowhere in B.C., is a reminder that amid hismings come more dismaying happenings. The tourist weather season this year has been ideal, and for holidays and vacation travel the summer one

The corollary unfortunately of sunny and un-clouded sides for weeks at a time is the fire hazard this brings to forest areas, throwing men out of work, destroying vast tracts of timber, and costing immense sums in fire-fightists

At the moment the situation is not bright, with hundreds of fires burning throughout the province and more threatened, in spite of heroic efforts by fire-fighting crews

It should not be necessary to warn people to be extremely careful if in the woods or near brush areas. Many of these fires stem from negligence on the part of individuals, dropping matches or glawing eigerettes or failing to put camp firm out.

Even in city areas householders have a duty to keep the risk of fire to a minimum A tiny spark can start a conflagration with severely damaging

Might for Right

THERE can be no denying the truth of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's assertion that the position of the Soviet Union in eastern Europe is morally weak. But, unfortunately, moral strength is a relatively unimportant factor in deciding the fate of nations.

It may afford us of the West great satisfaction to look upon the dismands of references which daily fine the Communist pupper regimes of Europe to seek senetury within the borders of a democratic nation makeable proof of an ultimate victory of freedom over totalltarianism.

If this is our view then we live is a fool's paradise. To place these small gains to our credit in per-pective we must look further afield—to Africa, the Middle East, Asia, and even Latin America. There, rather than a pittful handful of people coming to our side, whole nations in their millions are being led unprotestingly into the Communist camp.

True, these people have not made an individual choice; their leaders—the Castros, the Nkrumahs, the but undeniably and most certainly left us they have, despite our vaunted moral strength and high-prin-

If there is a lesson to be learned from this, it is the distasteful fact that moral strength runs a very poor third to military and economic power among the new nations of the world. Unhampered by the lossy ideals to which we of the West subscribe, unhindered by the responsibilities and value of a freedom they have never enjoyed, they instinctively and willingly accept the Seviet dictum of might is right.

Through the recent strengthening of NATO and U.S. armed forces combined with the launching of the new aid programs for African and Latin American countries, the West may yet be able to regain

But, at best, it will be a long and arduous taskone which can only succeed if its military and economic power attains a parity with its moral rightness.

A Club With Limits

BRITISH acience ministry spokesman says that sending men into space is a very expensive hobby. It is all of that. Only two nations can afford it, the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. All others must simply watch from the sidelines.

Man is an enquiring animal and always has been. Even without the sour of international rivalry presumably he would have moved towards human exploration of the skies. It would have been a much more cautious and slower approach, however. More academic, in the interests of pure science and Britain itself, the spokesman says, through its much more modest scientific researches, is producing more in the way of abstract acientific knowledge than the mammoth space programs of either of the two giants of space orbiting.

The unfortunate fact of course is that both Russian and American programs are the opposite of ab-They have one crucial object and that cogcerns the military aspect of space travel. Each na-tion fears the dominance of this new sphere by the other, and the possibilities implicit in space vehicles and the military uses to which they may be put.

In their case the scientific nature of space probing is allied to military security and thus underwritten by the huge defence budgets dictated by the present tense international scene.

Space travel is thus not a venture other nations can join. It is beyond their purses. Fears are expressed that what is called the nuclear club-might spread in numbers. There seems to be no likelihood that the space club will attract new members.

He Can't Have Both

Warning: this much flour can make the difference between good and really good baking

Now that Robin Hood Flour is completely pre-sifted, you will find these words printed on every flour bag or Guarantee Certificate:

To use your own All-Purpose Flour recipes with Robin Hood Pre-Sifted Flour - just measure the amount your recipe calls for, and take out one heaping tablespoon for every cup.

You may wonder why this advice is needed. There's a very good reason. Pre-sifted flour measures more compactly than home-sifted. There's a little more of it - about a heaping tablespoon - to every cup. That little more can make a big difference to your finished Naturally, your older All-Purpose Flour recipes are based on flour you sift yourself. But Robin Hood Flour now needs no sifting ever, no matter what you bake. So when you use it, you'll get best results if you make the simple recipe-adjustment described above. We guarantee those results...or your money back plus 10%.

Another flour company has said this adjustment isn't really necessary. We're using this advertisement to tell you we disagree. Research has proven that an adjustment is necessary ... if you want your baking to be as nearly perfect as it can be. Nothing less will satisfy Robin Hood.

And very likely, nothing less will satisfy you.

Holiday Hangover

Seems to me that a really keen pardener goes off on his summer vacation with mixed feelings. He is number to get away with his family to a change of acres and some relaxa-tion but he dreads the nerry spectacle that will greet lites in the garden upon

High winds and heavy rain can certainly make a shambles of the garden, aspecially when staking has been inselected, but it is surprising how quickly a garden can be hought back to mermal after a recowood absume, separally if a little intelligent canditioning was performed before heaving.

One of the most urgant jobs will be staking and tying the plants which have put on height in your absence and the removal of faded flower-heads from both annual and perennial

The lawn will need attention also and, if it has turned into a hayfield through lack of mowing, it is best to reduce the height of the grass in to reacte the weight of the grain in to northal length strainft away. Most of our minders retary power mowers can be adjusted to cut very high indeed and it is a good Hee to not it up in its highest notch for the

Not very many real-type movers are capable of such wide adjustment but, if you can't set yours to cut high amough, a little extra height can be gained by winding a rope around the weaden roller at the back to increase

The mowings will have to be raised The mowings will have to be raised up, of tourne, for there will be too heavy a load to heave or the lawn. If the weather is dry, an easy way to dispose of them to to use them as a mulch, spreading them thickty over the bare sail between the flowering plants and vegetable rows. The mulch will conserve mentione new and, when turned in during the fall digging, will ladd a bit of much needed organic matter to the self.

You may find the lawn and flowers beds as dry as a hone upon flowers bods as dry as a bone upon your return from vacation and it un't really dry soil, for it tends to run off rather than sinking in. A very fine, misty spray is better than coarse droplets but, if your sprinkler won't the ground lightly, then mosp on to mostler part of the garden, coming back from time in time to apply a little more water, never giving more at any one time than will sink in Weeds are always a problem to the returning vacationer, for they areca to be waiting until we turn'our back to come popping out of the ground in herrid profusion, and it is import-ant to deal with these before they one set and shed seed. Old Country gardeners have a mying that gors. one years seeding seven years' only too true.

We have a whole host of miracle chemicals these days for controlling weeks but they all cost money and there is always some danger is using them war our volued plants. I have written before about burning off weeds by spraying them with an over-dose of fertilizer, a very good and safe method where there is a lot of wordy ground to be covered, but for the average backyard plot, it is pretty hard to heat a super-sharp Dutch hoe, acuffling the weeds off just below the soil surface.

English Musicals All Greek?

LONDON The first thing that strikes me about the London theatre is that the audiences seem to be enjoying thermedves which, after New York, is highly unusual. Audiences here go to the theatre for entertain-ment other old things rather than the American form of ritualistic status worship. The other thing that strikes me is that the biggest hits here will have to be translated into something more nearly resembling English before they get to New York.

I greatly enjoyed "Oliver!" the anormously successful musical based on Charles Dicken's "Oliver Twist." but I must confess I understood only culty understanding byrics anyhow, particularly complicated ones, and when they're in Cockney, they might just as well be in Greek. There's a nasty rumor around that "Fings Ain't Wot They Used to Be," another Cockney musical headed for New York, is in Greek.

I met a girl the other day who I met a girl the other day who saw "Fings Ain't West They Used to,Be," and she said she caught only one English word. "What was that?" I asked. "Gagarin." she said. Well, Gagarin is a good English word silvright, but I doubt that it's in the

But there's no doubt about the enjoyment. Much of this, I'm con-vinced, is the last minute nature of so much English thestre. I made up my mind to see "Rosa." a play about Lawrence of Arabia that has been running a year, about 15 minutes before curiain time, strailed ever, got a good seat for a pound ($2.80) and thoroughly enjoyed it. "Ross" is not a great play and you could probably argue that it isn't even a very good one, but, even without Alec Guinness in the leading role which he originated, it's very interesting theatre about a very complex and fascinat-

Seen under London circumstances - the case of getting seats and the inexpensiveness — it was a good rewarding evening. However, under New York circumstances, where going to the theatre requires aimost as much preparation and expense as moving to the country, I'm not sure "Ross" is good enough. There's the difference between Landon and New York and it's a big one. Also there's the matter of mood. When you're is the mood in September to go to the theaten enoughly to preticular. theatre, especially to a particular show, it doesn't follow necessarily that you're still in the mood the following February, which is the earliest that you can get tickets.

The biggest hit in London is "Beyond the Fringe." It has a cast of four young men I women are not even satiric, and it may be the funniest

The four young men are marvel-lously literate and gifted amateurs out of Cambridge and Oxford and only one of them, Peter Cook, has theatrical ambitions. The most gifted is Jenathan Miller, a young doctor, who looks like a koals bear, is about eight feet tall and reminds me strongly of the early Danny Kaye.

* * * Nothing - absolutely nothing - is wildly funny and madly irreverent about such nabobs as Macmillan, black African nationalists, and the Church of England clergy.

I was entranced with a spool on a couple of very real British philosophers who get enmeshed with wards with massive British solemnity. "Are you using 'yee' in its affirmative sense?" asks one, "No:"

Prime Minister Macmillan la flayed alive in a parody of one of his speeches: "It's very easy to sneer but it's a joily sight harder to build the things at which to sneer."

But you can't reproduce in print the delicious quality of the terribly hip, literate, biting satire these young words but their bodies and inflections and faces. Not only are the ordinary sacred rows such as prime ministers under attack but those even sacrede liceral cows such as Negroes and Jews come in for their share of more, if anything in the house is broken or needs attention, I call a guy is to fix it. My do-it yourself days are long gone."

Garner, hitting the movie big-time as a star with Andrey Haphura and Shirtey MacLaine in William Wyler's "The Children's Hour," defends his position by dipping back to less prosperous moments.

"I can't remember when, as a kid from the age of eight, I wasn't mowing lawns, clipping hedges carting away clutter, cleaning garages and woodsheds, and hating every minute of it. Some day, I told myself, I'll make enough money to have those things done for me. Now that day has arrived. Not only that, I'm providing employment.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Spurning hallignment threats, President Kounedy yesterday assured Nikita Khrushcheves wariito rumblings over Berlin by calmly plodging the United States to use every peaceful device for settling the German crisis.

In a carefully worded reply to the Soviet premier, the President told a news conference the U.S. govern-ment was convinced that "every means should be employed, every diplomatic means, to see if a preceful solution to this difficult matter can be achieved."

Already firmly committed to use force if necessary to stay in Berlin, he obviously felt that this was no time to en gage in war talk or to rattle nuclear weapons at Khrush they. He did emphasize that any peaceful solution must protect Western rights in Bu
